The Krikkitmen was a Doctor Who story that Douglas Adams planned to write- indeed, it was planned to be a film. In the end it never happened and Adams reworked some of the stories ideas into the Hitchhiker's book Life, the Universe and Everything. The Fourth Doctor takes his companion Romana to a cricket match at Lords.

Doctor Who and the Krikkitmen by James Goss

Whereas Adams pulled ideas and elements for his Dirk Gently novels out of 'Shada' after its production failed to be completed, the third Hitchhikers novel is essentially 'The Krikkitmen' without the Doctor Who elements. Obviously, there are plenty of differences between the two, but, essentially, they are the same plot.

The Doctor promised Romana the end of the universe, so she's less than impressed when what she gets is a cricket match. But then the award ceremony is interrupted by eleven figures in white uniforms and peaked skull helmets, wielding bat-shaped weapons that fire lethal bolts of light into the screaming crowd. The Krikkitmen are back.
